GUNMEN BLAMED
BY U. M. W. FOR
HERRIN TROUBLEFirst Formal Statement From Illinois
Miners' Head Deplores Calamity
But Puts Blame on Industrial
GuardSAYS OPERATORS DELIB-
ERATELY COURTIED DISASTER

By Associated Press

Springfield, July 21.—The "ugly countenance of the American gunman" today was blamed for the Herrin calamity in a brief filed by Frank Harrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers, with a Federal Coal Commission in answer to a brief filed by the National Coal Association. This is the first formal expression from the miners' president regarding Herrin. He quotes a letter from one of the mine guards who purports to show the guards where the tragedy occurred were heavily armed. It adds "Heaven help them if they ever start in on the mining property." Harrington finds neither side free from blame but asserts the mine owners deliberately courted trouble by hiring armed, reckless men into a "peaceful community quietly awaiting" an agreement between miners and operators. He pleads for banishment of the industrial gunman whose banishment, he asserts, will be a long stride toward industrial peace.

KLAN MAKES STAND
ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 21.—Resolutions declaring that the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan stand firmly for law enforcement through property constituted officials were adopted by the grand dragons and great klans of the order who adjourned their annual conference here, according to announcement by Klan officials.

The resolutions condemned any person "who might seek to take the law into their own hands."

Another resolution adopted by the conference placed the Klan on record as opposing unscrupulous foreign immigration and favoring even more drastic immigration laws.

The body was sent to her former home at Knoxville, Tenn., for burial.

LOCAL BOY TO REFORM
SCHOOL FOR STEALING

County Judge J. S. Bingham tempered justice with mercy in a juvenile case Saturday afternoon. Willis Campbell, orphan about 16 years old, was charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Tom Caldwell. The boy was sentenced to the reform school until he is 21 years of age, with the reservation that the sentence does not take effect unless another offense is committed.

The boy was placed under the guardianship of John Hopper who was instructed to keep a close watch on the youth's future actions. "You had better give up this career of crime while you have time," said the judge. "It leads to jails, prisons and the graveyard."

DECIDE ON MINE
INSURANCE CASESQuestion Whether Miners Injured Riding
Rail Horses Entitled to Workmen's Compensation

The question of whether or not mine employees injured while riding "rail horses" are entitled to benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Act will be decided in cases heard in court by Felix S. Dumas, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, this morning.

The cases of Bob Ellis vs. Atlas Coal Mining company and Joe Pickett vs. Yellow Creek Coal company were submitted. Verdicts will be announced later. The case of Wesley McFall vs. Log Mountain Coal company was dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

In the hearing of the Ellis case evidence was introduced that men made their own "rail horses" and used them without the consent of the employer. Testimony as to whether or not the men had been ordered to discontinue the practice was conflicting.

The plaintiff, a negro, sustained a broken leg when his "rail horse" wrecked on April 11. His leg is still in a bad condition necessitating the use of crutches.

After the close of the trials, Mr. Dumas stated in an interview that, in his opinion, injuries received while riding a "rail horse" do not constitute a compensable case. The practice is a very dangerous one, he explained, and men who follow it in violation of the company's rules do so at their own risk.

H. PICKETT RECEIVES
ANONYMOUS LETTER OF THREATENING NATURE

H. Pickett, colored proprietor of the Union Hotel, has received an anonymous letter in which he is warned to conduct his place in a proper manner. The recipient of the note brought the matter to the attention of Chief Ball this morning, though he contended that it had not worried him a bit.

The writer of the unsigned letter stated that certain idle persons around the hotel must leave town before Saturday, though there was no explicit threat contained in it. "We have had our eyes on Nineteenth street" for some time, it further stated, in hinting of a needed general cleanup.

The note was in pencil writing and came through the mail, postmarked at Middlesboro. Pickett said he read it to employees and others in the vicinity and that none of them were frightened by it.

Pickett claims that he has no supernatural help around the hotel, that the few he employs are honest, hard working people. None of them have any intentions of leaving town, he declared.

Chief Ball declared his intention of investigating the matter to disclose the identity of the writer of the note.

THOUSANDS VIEW
BODY OF VILLAChieftain Murdered by Seven Assassins
Either Deceitful or For Revenge

By Associated Press

Panama, Chiriquia, Mexico, July 21.—The body of Francisco (Pancho) Villa was viewed today by thousands of persons. Heavily guarded, Villa was shot from ambush yesterday on the outskirts of Paraiso by seven assassins who sent sixteen bullets into his head and body. Villa's secretary, Miguel Trellero, one member of Villa's bodyguard, and one bystander were also killed. The assassins fled but three were later captured. Two theories for the killing are advanced. One is revenge, the other that it was done by deceiving members of his bodyguard in other cases apparently the cause can be traced to Villa's fiery temper.

LONE MOUNTAIN MILL CALLED
CLEANEST IN WHOLE SOUTH

"The Lone Mountain Milling company has the finest and cleanest plant in the entire south," declared J. A. Buchanan, sanitary expert, who is here for an annual examination of the flour mill, a process that keeps it free from moths.

Mr. Buchanan used cyanide gas to kill the moths. A quantity of this was released this morning and will remain in the mill until some time tomorrow. The fumes kill the moths which, if unchecked, would destroy 15 per cent of the grain annually.

It costs the Lone Mountain Milling company about $500 a year for the fumigation but it pays them to do it. It is only by this method that meal and flour can be kept free from the insects," he explained. Mr. Buchanan is a representative of the Exito Chemical Company, Beaumont, Wis.

Report from the community indicate that Jones and the Collins woman had an argument over a cow which culminated in the stabbing. He was arrested after the incident by Boone Turner and sent to the Middlesboro jail. It was at first thought that the woman was seriously hurt. She is under the care of a physician.

Columbus, July 21.—All the surviving members of the crusaders of 1871 in the field of temperance, or their nearest relatives will be present at the fiftieth annual convention of the National Women's Temperance Union here September 1 to 11, and arrangements are already on foot to make the event one of historic interest.

The premier spectacle, intended to call to mind the fact that 50 years of temperance endeavor have passed, and the success that has attended these efforts, will be the "March of Allegiance to the Constitution," to be held September 8. The early temperance crusades, the growth of the organization and the development of its work will be pictured in this parade with floats and banners.

A special committee of 100 leading women has been formed to arrange for the convention.

Low Return For Farmers Wins
Senate For Magnus Johnson

BY HARRY B. LUNT

Washington, July 21.—"Ninety-cent wheat and six-cent hogs."

Those two factors, in the opinion of farm bloc circles here, are responsible for the election of Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor candidate, to fill the senatorial seat of Kanite Nelson over Governor Pries of Minnesota.

The effect of Johnson's election, giving Minnesota two Farmer-Labor senators, will be to make doubly secure the grip of the farm bloc in the Senate on the balance of power in the organization of that body when Congress reconvenes, December 3.

The senatorial lineup today consists, theoretically, of 51 Republicans, 42 Democrats and two Farmer-Labor senators. There is one vacancy, due to the death, July 13, of Dillingham of Vermont. Conceding a Republican will succeed Dillingham, the lineup is 52-42-2.

Of the 52 Republicans, however, at least 10, and possibly 11, will follow farm bloc leadership and program whenever farm bloc consideration clashes with the ideas of G. O. P. or organization leaders.

Could Bloc Program

The two Farmer-Labor party senators also will work hand-in-hand with the farm bloc group.

For purposes of blocking a stand-pat conservatism machine organization and control of the Senate, therefore, the lineup would be Republicans, 42; Farmer-Labor, Farmer-Labor, Democratic, 54.

The election of Johnson, farm bloc supporters contend, is but another indication of the way the political pendulum is swinging throughout the agricultural states.

Unless it is headed by Republican leaders, they assert, and measures of relief enacted by the coming Congress, the reaction against the party in power may be no less decisive in 1924 than it was in 1920 when the Republicans piled up 7,000,000 majority.

Must Convince Farmer

"It will take more than a Republican president driving a tractor blunder across a Nebraska wheat field to make the farmer satisfied to get 90 cents a bushel for wheat which cost him $1.25 to grow," one member says.

"And it will take more than oratory to explain why he gets only six cents a pound for his hogs when city folks are paying 35 cents a pound for ham. Maybe the men who are elected will not be able to solve the problem any better than those now in, but until some solution is found you may bet the farm voters are going to swing every administration head that sticks up out of the woodpile."

The groom had been condemned only to 20 years imprisonment. All four were fugitive Flemish who had been convicted by the Belgians because of certain Flemish tendencies and pro-Germanism.

LOCAL PUBLIC FOUNTAIN,
LIKE OLD TOWN PUMP,
SERVES AS OPEN FORUM

Middlesboro has no traditional town pump where informal meetings of indolent gentlemen are held, having long ago outgrown this stage of civic development, but the public fountain serves in its stead as an open forum.

It is here that the weighty affairs of state are thrashed out, civic problems discussed and satisfactorily settled and the mysteries of the Bible explained for the edification of other loungers or chance passersby.

Men who form these little gatherings are not idlers. Many of them come in from the country to attend court or to do shopping and stop there for a cooling draught from the artesian well, a restful smoke and social bear. Others are local citizens who are never loath to forget private matters and contribute to the friendly discussions in which men's opinions are weighed more for their worth than the source.

It is the visitors from the suburban sections who generally drift to ecclesiastical subjects in their conversation. The "Hardshell" creed is not infrequently expounded here by good old brothers who have the force of their convictions, whose faiths are yet unshaken by modern theories of science.

The opening of the pool will be hailed with delight by hundreds of Middlesboro people who have been deploring the lack of a good swimming place. Bathing suits will be available for rent.

By Associated Press

On Board U. S. S. Henderson with President Harding, July 21.—President Harding, it can be declared positively, has no intention of calling Congress into session in advance of the regular December meeting. "Mr. Harding, his associates say, feels there is little or no need for any immediate assembling of the federal legislative body and furthermore that leaders of congress in common with the public generally believe the country is benefitting by the current recess of Congress.

CHARGES MATE TRADED
OFF BABY FOR HORSE

Shreveport, La., July 21.—Mrs. Arthur Mausey complained to the district attorney's office here that her husband had traded their 14-month-old son to an unidentified man for a horse and buggy and then had sold the outfit for $20. She appealed to the authorities to assist her to recover the child.

The woman said she and her husband had been leading a gipsy life and that the husband had engaged in horse trading for several years. The husband, she said, had forced her to sign "some sort of paper" in connection with the child-horse trade, and she added that bills of sale had been exchanged between the traders.

ROOSTER CAUSES KILLING DA-KOTA MAN BY NEIGHBOR

SIOTX FALLS, S. D., July 21.—The crowing of a rooster every morning was the cause of the shooting to death of Eugene J. Griffith, 42 years old, yesterday, according to police who have Charles L. Ferguson, the alleged slayer, under surveillance.

The rooster, with its neck wrung, was found beside the body of Griffith. According to Ferguson, he found Griffith in his henhouse this morning after the latter threatened to "stop the crowing if the rooster was not disposed of." When Ferguson ordered Griffith to raise his hands the latter refused, and the owner of the rooster fired twice, the second bullet striking Griffith in the heart.

A THOUGHT

Unto the pure all things are pure; but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.—Titus 1:15.

The man who in this world can keep the whiteness of his soul is not likely to lose it in any other.—Alexander Smith.

RAILROAD SWITCHING AT THE CROSSING

To motorists between Middlesboro and Pineville, or any part of town beyond the railroad crossing, the most exasperating part of the journey is waiting on the trains, or parts of trains which block the street there for varying lengths of time. Even if there were no danger attached to going over the tracks at this crossing, the annoyance of always having to wait is a factor.

Of course, no one is so unreasonable as not to expect trains to run over the crossing but it does seem as if some other part of the yards would do as well for switching as the crossing. The yards were built, probably, before there was much travel that way. Now, however, hundreds of cars regularly pass that way, and as soon as the street is reconstructed, all traffic beyond the tracks will go that way. Traffic, particularly freight shipment, is bound to increase all of the time, too, and surely things will be in a bad way if the switch is not moved to one side or the other.

Whether the moving of the switch would cost too much or entail too much trouble and inconvenience is, of course, a matter for the railroad to consider. However, they should be made to feel what public sentiment on the matter is. It is nothing uncommon to see eight or ten cars lined up on each side of the track for varying lengths of time, a process which is likely to become a nuisance, if it is not already one.

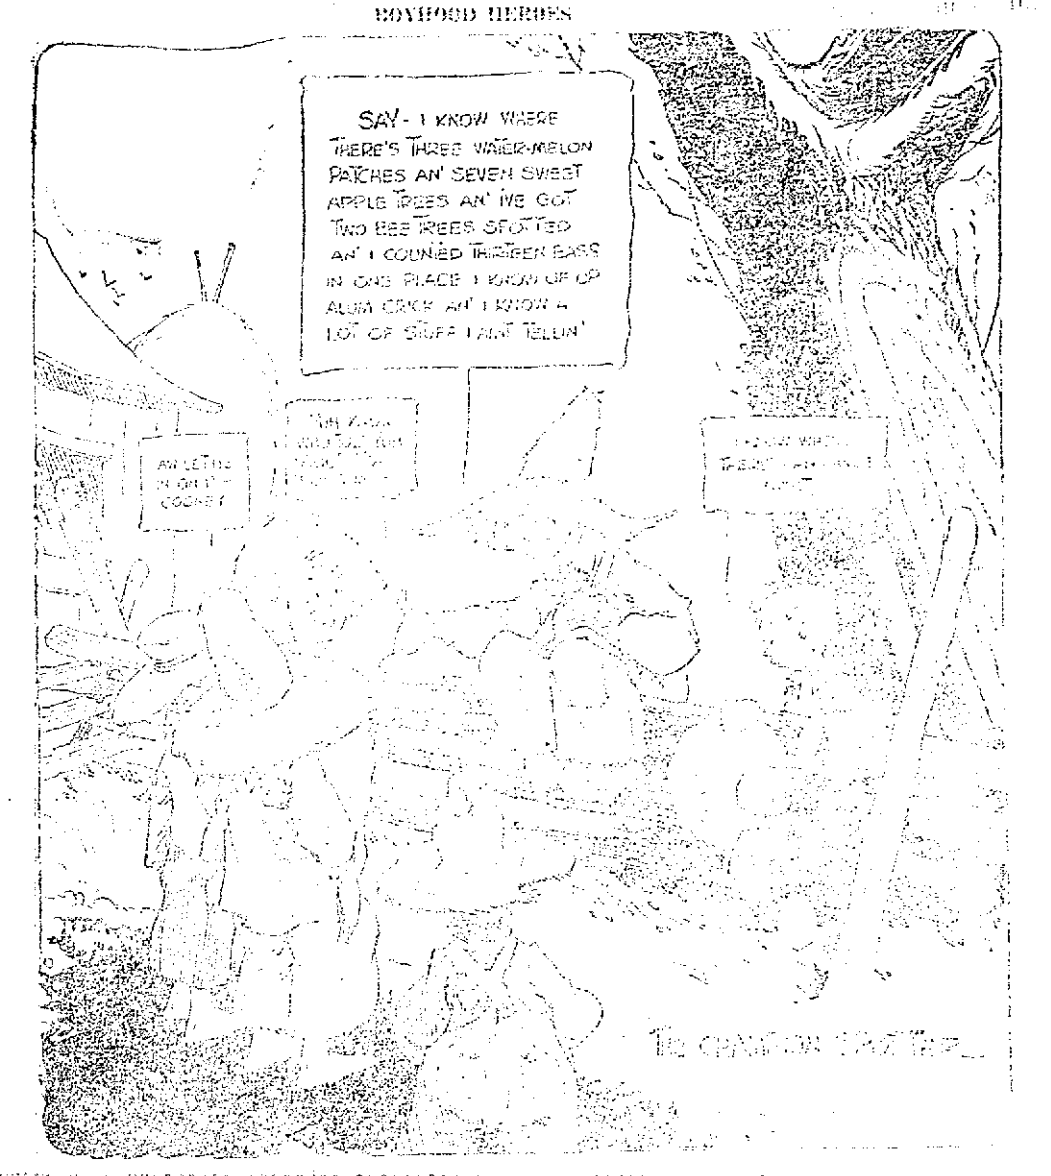

As traffic over both road and railroad increase, will not something be done about this? Surely the section to either the right or left of the crossing is just as good a place for switching.

THE WORLD COURT

Many American editors were asked recently to give their reasons for opposing or favoring this country's becoming a member of the international court of justice. The request was made by an advocate of the court. The answers were grouped printed and distributed in circular form throughout the country.

These answers, as far as they are favorable to the court and American participation, are more than interesting. This country should join the world court, they say, because:

1. We ought to get under the big tent.
2. We ought to be willing to sacrifice some sovereignty if necessary in the interest of world peace.
3. America should do her share in preventing wars in the future.
4. America should have a part and lend its influence to its allies in adjusting the tremendous matters in Europe.
5. No man nor nation need fear to do right nor be right.
6. It is the duty of the United States to share their responsibility of endeavoring to settle those international matters that disturb the peace of the world.
7. The United States should assume her responsibilities as a world power, and take advantage of her opportunities as a peace maker.
8. It is incumbent on us to use our influence among the nations of the world for justice.
9. We believe that America's responsibility in Europe did not end in 1918.

10. The great difficulty of the United States is to have and maintain the peace.

11. We are a peace-loving people. It is the duty of the United States to keep the peace.

12. We are rightly entitled to help humanity solve its international problems and to help maintain in the long battle of right against might.

13. We owe it to the rest of the world from a humanitarian as well as a business standpoint.

14. America has a chance to become the leader in the effort to establish a world peace.

15. The United States will never take the place that rightfully belongs to her, the place of leadership, as protector and maker of world's peace and the poster of hope to the nation until she enters the League of Nations.

MORE IMPROVEMENT ON ARTHUR HEIGHTS

The exclusive driveway of Arthur Heights, recently so well improved partially at the city's expense by a street wall around the side of it, is again favored. Loads of rock from Cumberland Avenue have been hauled up there and spread over the entire front side of the drive. This driveway is used regularly by perhaps half a dozen automobile owners, residents of Arthur Heights. Numerous other streets and roads in the city, however, over which numbers of travelers drive a day, have not been touched. Taxpayers in various parts of town are asking if perhaps the fact of a city official's residence on Arthur Heights can have anything to do with the favor in which that section ranks.

Villa was killed in singularly light way. We don't know what kind of fighting that is but it must have been fatal to Villa.

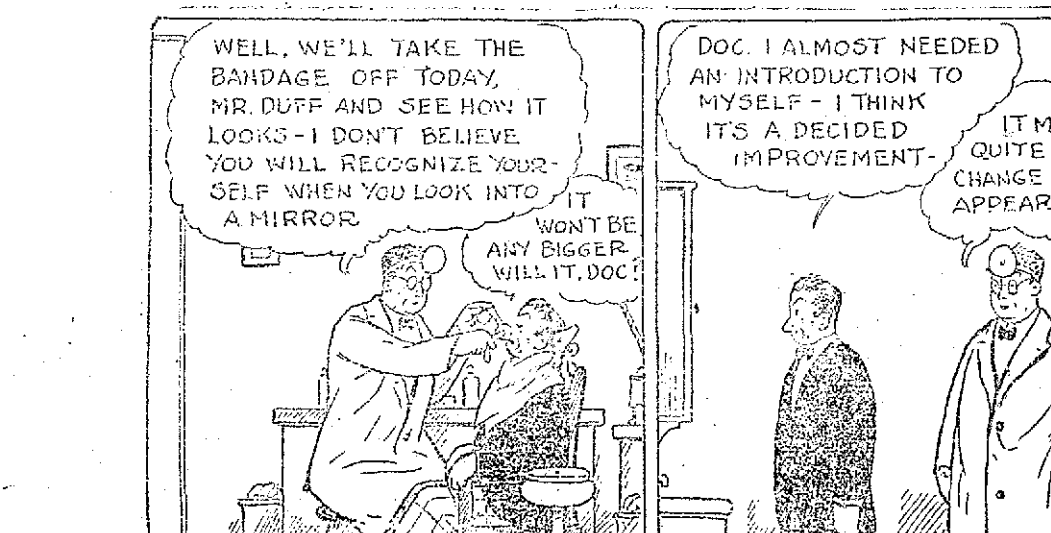

German marks have dropped so low that man with a couple of eight cent pieces would probably be considered a millionaire.

Though far from being desirable, hot weather has its good points. It is a standing excuse for laziness, erratic actions and other weaknesses "that flesh is heir to."

If perseverance is confined largely to any nation, surely it is ours. Whether it be a marathon stunner, record, a prizefight or anything of great value to mankind, Americans usually lead the procession.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LITTLE MARQUISE

Dear Little Marquise, you will understand the first part of this letter because you are familiar with your own heart. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately, and I have been thinking of the first part of this letter because you are familiar with your own heart. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately, and I have been thinking of the first part of this letter because you are familiar with your own heart.

Many a man can't meet his friends because he can't meet his expenses. Woods, it seems, have about their annual tree against the year tables. There are about 110,000,000 people in the United States trying to get a little easier. Happiness isn't scarce. It just isn't being used much. A June bride tells us her new husband thinks she signed up for love, honor and no pay. Good they made along is much nobler as equally poor. Very few of the notes left at home on Sunday afternoon are able to run at all. Tall girls don't marry as quickly because they have to stoop to make a man kiss them. Winter is better than summer. You can always put on more clothes, but can't always take off more. All of us would be patient if it didn't take so much patience. Pedestrians have the law on their side all right, but the auto, hit them from behind. Berlin Brab's Daily Form. BEAT By Berlin Brab. It's hot! The asphalt's boiling. And running like a steam. The water-cooler's sizzling. I work in B. V. D's. But perspiration's dripping. And from my chair, I wot. I cannot keep from slipping - It's hot! It's hot! Women Are Sheiks And Men Wear Veils in Sahara

Paris, July 21.—Here's news for American hen-pecked husbands:

There are some men even worse off than they.

For out in the Sahara Desert there is a tribe in which the men are forced to wear veils and the women are the sheiks! That is a land where every man is supposed to be a masterful hero!

For centuries they had been hiding behind the skirts of their wives, and they were able to keep the fact of their subjugation from the world. But finally a woman discovered their secret.

She is Mme. Citroen, wife of the French automobile manufacturer who accompanied him on his motor caravan trip across the desert. Says she:

"This tribe, known as Tuaregs, live on the Abaggar Plateau in the heart of the Sahara.

"Its women are the bosses; and the men are the weaker sex—indeed, little more than slaves.

"There a woman never lies about her age. No man dares ask her how old she is. And even if he would, she probably couldn't tell him. For there is no such thing as age in the land of the Tuaregs.

"I asked one how old she was. She looked at me with scorn and said: 'We'll see when we die. There's no need before.' Time slips by so quickly, she explained, that there is no use wasting any trying to figure out the years.

"Whether it is his carefree spirit, or the climate, I don't know. But the women there are remarkably beautiful, and audaciously domineering.

"All other women of the desert are forced to wear veils over their faces. But not the Tuaregs. They make the men wear them instead.

"This position of the women is extraordinary, for the tribe is Moslem, and the tenets of the Islam religion teach that women are inferior creatures."

But there is one advantage which the Tuareg hen-pecked husbands has over the American. He never has to wash the dishes.

"For," says Mme. Citroen, "there are no dishes to wash. When one is hungry he just walks out and pulls a bunch of dates from a palm tree and has his fill. These dates are the only food.

"The divorce law is easy among the Tuaregs. All that a man need do when he wants to get rid of his wife, is to tell the Caid, his chief, to send his wife away and the divorce is complete. But while that is the law of the land, it is not the practice. The women have their men too well trained to take any chance."

While the husbands are timid before their wives, they are as fearless as any other men of the desert when they leave their homes. For centuries these strange veils worn at all times have withstood any intrusion. In 1890 when the French began consolidating their vast African possessions, they fought the Tuaregs and lost many men in the campaign. They were only subdued when Marshal Joffre, then commander, took a hand in the fight.

But even in their defeat they kept their secrets. No photos had ever been taken of them, until Mme. Citroen and her party, in armored cars, penetrated the desert and won the confidence of the woman sheiks.

SLAYER IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Wife Of Kingsport Man Under Bond As Witness. Deathbed Statement Read

KINGSFORT, Tenn., July 21.—John Lemons, charged with the killing of Robert Kyle, on whose farm Lemons was a tenant, was bound over Wednesday by Judge E. D. Smith of a charge of first degree murder without bond. His wife was held as a material witness under a bond of $1,000.

The fatal wounding of Kyle, 37 years old and unmarried, took place Friday afternoon at the home of Lemons, on Kyle's farm, about three miles from Kingsport. Kyle dying Sunday morning in a hospital here.

Mrs. Lemons on the stand testified that she was at her home at the time her husband was alleged to have shot Kyle, but declined to answer further questions as to the events of the afternoon, acting on advice of counsel.

A paper purporting to be the deathbed statement of Kyle was offered by Ralph Worley, representing the prosecution. Kyle asserted in the statement that he responded to come at once to Lemons' home, supposing that Lemons wanted pay for work done as the tenant was going away for a few days. He said that Lemons shot him without cause.

Other witnesses for the state testified that Lemons had come to the Kyle home and on being informed that Kyle was not there, asked that Kyle come to his house immediately on his return.

The defendant did not take the stand. Lemons and his wife were taken to the Blountville jail by Sheriff Thomas.

COAL INDUSTRY NEEDS REGULARITY

Greever Says U. M. W. Working for Monopolistic Control—High Prices Always Result of Strikes

E. L. Greever, of Tazewell, Va., counsel to the Special Bituminous Operators Committee, addressed a representative number of members of the Cincinnati Coal Exchange on July 12, despite the vacation and hot weather period.

Regularity of production was urged as the greatest need of the coal industry, this being the greatest measure that could be effected to deliver coal at a proper price, supply and demand always being a reliable regulator, while strikes always resulted in high prices.

Possible monopolistic control was the greatest menace of the coal industry and the public today, said Mr. Greever. The United Mine Workers now control 60 per cent of the coal production of the country, they are determined to control 100 per cent, in which case they would thereby control transportation, and the distribution of coal, saving what industries should have coal, what families should have fuel, thus creating an autocratic monopoly extending far beyond that of coal, in effect, making this organization more powerful than the Government itself, but which condition Mr. Greever thought the American people would never stand for.

Not only coal operators and coal men generally, but the public itself should interest itself in mine problems as the public was vitally affected by all mining conditions.—Appalachian Trade Journal.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT FOR JULY, 1923, GIVEN

Kentucky's 1923 total acreage of tobacco of all types is approximately 567,000 acres compared to 525,000 acres last year, and the Kentucky wheat crops 7,235,000 bushels compared to 7,345,000 bushels produced last year; these are the features of the July crop report for Kentucky, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. This decrease of 150,000 bushels from the final 1922 production of wheat in Kentucky is due to decreased acreage which was nearly 5 per cent less than in 1922. This month's estimate of the acreage and condition of corn in Kentucky indicates a crop of about 86,180,000 bushels compared to 88,060,000 bushels produced last year. The acreage is the same as last year, 3,145,000 acres, but the crop is extremely late. Based on records of previous yields of tobacco in Kentucky this year's acreage of 567,000,522,887,000 pounds.

Oats in Kentucky are estimated at 5,027,000 bushels compared to 4,282,000 bushels last year. Oats in some parts of the state were damaged by rust and some were very short. Rye for grain is estimated at 243,000 bushels, compared to 210,000 bushels, last year; barley 157,000 bushels compared to 168,000 bushels last year; Irish potatoes 4,994,000 bushels compared to 4,720,000 bushels last year; and sweet potatoes 2,038,000 bushels compared to 2,020,000 bushels last year. Hay has been poor in most counties and is now estimated at 1,307,000 tons compared to 1,497,000 tons last year. Fruit is very irregular, but generally a fair crop in Central and Western Kentucky, but short in Eastern Kentucky. Apples are about 46 per cent of a crop; peaches 4 per cent less than last year. All these 1923 estimates are subject to revision either downward or upward as the season progresses, depending on weather and other conditions.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE—By Ahern

Young Orator, Preaching Law, Accused of Theft

HARRY RANDOLPH PINE—QUESTION MARK OF CAMDEN

CAMDEN, N. J., July 21.—A crowded school auditorium.....Proud parents, relatives, friends lean forward in their seats as the class orator begins his oration, extolling law, deprecating lawlessness.....It is the high spot in his life.....It is his graduation day and he is making good.

A month later.....And the same boy stands in a courtroom charged with theft.....A theft that the police say was planned even while he was standing on the school platform several weeks back.

Impossible, say friends. Impossible, the authorities admit; yet they say the boy confessed. And the same people who applauded a month ago, now go by shaking their heads questioningly, confused and astounded.

Is this, they ask, a Jekyll and Hyde case in real life?

The central figure in this unusual case is Harry Randolph Pine, 18-year-old son of one of the best known families in town. At school he was known as "the most bashful boy" in his class. Quiet, modest, unassuming, he was an exemplar of good conduct.

At the commencement exercises he delivered the chief address entitled: "Respect for Law and Order."

With force, seemingly lured of sincerity, he said:

"Lawlessness in various forms threatens the very life of the nation.

"In all parts of our country lawyers and judges are discussing this prevalent spirit of lawlessness. They usually end by asserting that the law must and shall be enforced without fear or favor.

"Disrespect for the law has only been increased by the creation of thousands of new laws. These laws are disobeyed through confusion or ignorance of their existence."

Yet, the police say, at the very time that he was delivering this address, he and two other boys arrested with him, were planning a series of house burglaries!

So successful was his delivery at the school graduation that he was appointed "local preacher" in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Shortly afterwards in the absence of the regular clergyman, young Pine occupied the pulpit of the Union M. E. Church and preached a sermon that was one of the finest ever delivered in the church.

Can this boy, orator for law and order, be the same boy who was implicated in a series of burglaries?

According to charges made by the detectives working on the case, Pine and his two high school chums, John P. Middleton and Byron P. Cobb, each 17 years old, had taken property valued at close to $10,000. In two of the robberies charged against the boys, part of the loot was mysteriously returned to the owners through the mail a day after the burglaries.

Young Pine and his two chums were released on bail to await action by the grand jury.

Camden is puzzled. The town asks itself:

"Can a boy, giving eloquent tongue to respect for Law, give a secret love to Lawlessness?"

Laying Out Your Camp

Girls, are you going camping this year? Summer is here, and the camping season is on. Here are some tips that will add to your fun and your comfort if you go.

Choosing your camp site is important. See that you have some shady and some sunny land, part flat and part hilly. Six girls may be accommodated in one tent, or you may pitch on large tent for four and a smaller one for two; or make both larger, if there are more campers, or add another tent if necessary.

The accompanying sketch shows a tent 14x14, feet for four girls, with a covered porch 14x8, and another tent 12x12. In the center is the camp fire; under the trees, an outdoor dining table; nearby, a fly covering the stove in the rear, behind the trees on one side is a cache for food, and on the other side a drain for waste water, and a wash house.

Watch Drinking Water

See that the water supply is pure. Have it tested by local health authorities. When in doubt, boil the water. After it has been boiled it will taste flat, because the oxygen has been boiled away. You can bring "life" back to the water by aerating it.

Dip out carefully a cup of water and pour it back slowly, giving the oxygen of the air a chance to combine again with the water. Keep this up until the water has been cooled somewhat, and you will find the flat taste has disappeared.

Next in importance to water is camp sanitation. Find out from state and county health authorities what their rules and regulations are regarding sanitation. A good drain for waste

'SPOOK' MYSTERY PUZZLES PORTLAND

MRS. LESTER W. HUMPHREYS

Portland, Ore. July 21.—There may be no such things as ghosts. Mrs. Lester Humphreys isn't sure though. The Humphreys home on Portland Heights, has been the scene recently of "queer doings." On various occasions when the family has been away, member have returned only to find things in an uproar.

Furniture clothing and valuables were strewn everywhere. But five only once, nothing has been taken. Once the house was set afire.

Complete Mystery
During the past three months five invisible attacks have been made on the house.

The affair is a complete mystery and gives rise once more to the much believed haunted house theory.

Some time ago Mrs. Humphreys was called to her dining room by the maid. There, in the center of the room, a wrinkled old Chinaman with a huge sack on his bent back stood lecting Mrs. Humphreys stopped in amazement.

The Chinaman shuffled forward, grinning. The young wife screamed—and the figure on apparition or whatever it was—vanished!

Possible Theories
Again when Mrs. Humphreys had been away from the house only a short while after a time when extra locks had been placed on all possible points of entrance she found bedding had been tossed to the floor, a flower basket hung on the chandelier pictures turned in odd ways silverware strewn about the chairs and carpets put on the dining room table.

Aside from the ghost theory which most of the people out here—men and Mrs. Humphreys—emphatically do not believe, it is the popular impression that some man sent to prison by Humphreys when he was

U. S. district attorney is nursing an old grudge.

If such is the case it probably accounts for his having stolen only a diamond ring a little money and a stick pin.

The case is the strangest in this city's history and police are bending every energy to trap the spooks which they believe to be decidedly material.

THE PLAY

Is it possible to have two different rubings on plays that appear identical? The question is raised by the following conditions:

There is a runner on first base. The pitcher while standing perhaps a foot in front of the rubber delivers the ball to the batsman who does not offer at it. What is the ruling?

In the other case the bases are empty when the pitcher while standing in front of the rubber delivers the ball to the batter. He does not offer at it. What is the proper ruling?

THE INTERPRETATION

If with a runner on first the pitcher delivers the ball to the batsman while in front of the rubber and the batter does not offer at it such a pitch is called a "balk" whether it goes over the plate or not.

Thus with a runner on the bases the act of a balk with the bases empty is a ball provided the batter does not offer at the pitch.
